Portfolio Activity

Global equity markets continued their strong performance from Q1 into April with all major indices finishing the month in positive territory. The strongest performers were the EuroSTOXX and the Nikkei 225, returning 5.17%* and 4.97%* respectively. Theresa May's Brexit deal failed to secure any meaningful support from the UK parliament, resulting in a 6-month extension gifted from the EU. Theresa May now has until 31 October to bring a deal to the table which the European Union and the UK parliament can agree upon. Over to the US and the ongoing trade war with China has had no significant breakthrough. According to President Trump's rhetoric the negotiations are progressing well and should be concluded in the coming months but until there is a concrete deal in place, it may be foolish to take the President at face value. Announcements from the Fed, ECB and the BOJ this month all came with a dovish tone, highlighting the caution surrounding a global slowdown. Oil reached its highest price since November 2018 as OPEC continued to cut supply and optimism over a U.S.-China trade deal increased the demand outlook.

Growth accelerated this month and the Athena Global Opportunities fund returned 3.21%. The funds exposure to European equities supplied strong returns through Baillie Gifford European which returned 7.58%. Absolute return exposure also added value to the month's performance as Natixis H20 Multi Returns gained 6.84%*.

The recovery in equity markets since Q4 2018 has been exceptionally strong, with the US market reaching new all time

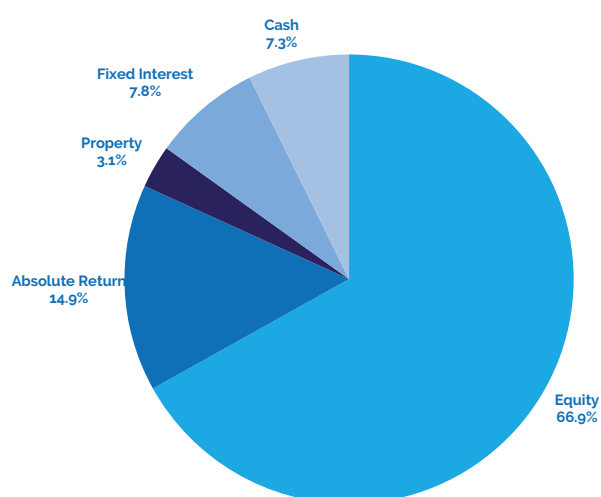

highs again in April. Given the extreme pessimism that markets faced in the fourth quarter, this rebound in sentiment back towards exuberance is also somewhat surprising, although we have seen better than expected corporate earnings and US data during the year so far. That said we are still awaiting concrete developments in the US/China trade negotiations and with the Brexit deadline having been pushed out, this is now the biggest risk to the current, more buoyant, market sentiment. With this in mind, we are cautious on how far the equity bull market will run and are ready to crystalize gains and de risk if the environment changes. Despite the caution, we retain our positive outlook on equities, primarily within the Emerging markets, Europe and Japan and continue to look for diversification through alternatives as opposed to fixed interest. *Source: Financial Express 31.03.19 – 30.04.19
